

Our professional mobile services offer you the best possible security in real time for ad hoc construction sites, showrooms and any other areas requiring surveillance. Our mobile units are sturdily designed and suitable for all locations. They are equipped with the latest video technology and enable us to carry out remote perimeter surveillance, video patrols, access control and alarm verification.

Our mobile units enable you to rapidly install a video surveillance system so that you can manage your security services remotely and independently of any existing security systems. This option is particularly effective for clients who have not invested in video surveillance systems or who work with sites that do not have any means of communication such as warehouses, open-air stock yards, railways, construction sites or plots of land.

These mobile solutions are an effective complement to traditional human surveillance services that include access control, physical on-site patrols and even intervention services.

All our units are equipped with loudspeakers to enable operators to establish voice contact with intruders and advise them that a Protectas patrol or the police are on their way. This key benefit distinguishes our services from those offered by standard video surveillance operators and enables us to manage your security remotely from our Remote Control Centres in Geneva and Zurich.
